Schools closed by deep snow

A heavy snowstorm which began yesterday evening and was continuing today was responsible for closing all schools in the Quad-City area today and for making all streets and highways snow-covered and hazardous.

The U.S. Weather Service described the St. Louis metropolitan area as being on "the leading edge" of a large storm which also was dropping large amounts of snow today in Colorado and freezing rain in the Texas Panhandle.

Travelers' advisory warnings were sent out for the northwestern portion of Missouri early today and ice storm warnings were issued for southern Missouri. The central and northern portions of Illinois and Missouri were under heavy snow warnings.

Local residents who drove to New Orleans, La., for yesterday's Super Bowl football game reported being stopped in southern states by freezing rain.

State traffic officials said that in Southern Missouri, roads were covered by a half-inch of ice with two inches of snow on top.

The continuing moderate to heavy snowfall this morning made it difficult for street crews to keep even main arteries in good driving condition.

Surprisingly, there were no accidents reported to Granite City, Madison or Venice police officers noted that numerous intersections are slippery and hazardous.

Some collisions occurred later this morning.

Motorists have generally been driving slowly and carefully, allowing enough room between cars to stop on the snow and ice, policemen said.

A Venice street department crew was called out at 10 p.m. Sunday and worked until 1 a.m. today. Two crews went out again at 8 a.m. today to plow and salt streets.

Two crews in Madison began work on the streets at 6 a.m. today.

One is a salting crew and one is a snowplow crew for the streets.

Granite City Street Department crews were called out at 4:30 a.m. today to battle the snow and reported that salt and cinders had been spread at most major intersections by the time the morning rush of traffic started. The supply of salt and cinders should be adequate for this storm, it was related.

Five pieces of equipment, including the city's grader, have been on the streets all morning and will continue in operation as long as the snow continues to fall, Lionel Portell, street superintendent, said.

Portell said the temperature is helping the salt and cinders melt the snow, which is light in texture and easily plowed. "If we get a little sun this afternoon and the snow eases up, we should have the main streets in pretty good shape by this afternoon," he added.

"Traffic is moving today, but there are slick spots and motorists should have good tires and use caution," he concluded.

River ice limiting shipping

Due to major accumulations of ice in the lock upper approaches at Locks and Dam No. 26, Alton, and Locks No. 27, Granite City, the width of downbound vessels using those facilities is being restricted, effective immediately, to 80 feet with a maximum of 10 barges.

The announcement was made by James A. Petersen, chief, Operations Division, St. Louis District, Army Corps of Engineers.

As in the past, large accumulations of packed ice in the upper approaches have caused extreme difficulty for vessels in maneuvering against the upper guidewalls for entrance into the lock chambers," he said.

"This extreme difficulty has resulted in excessive obstruction of the locks by downbound vessels and abnormal delays to vessel traffic in general.

"A restriction of 80 feet wide with a maximum of 10 barges for downbound vessels should substantially improve the situation.

"Width restriction on upbound vessels is not currently being imposed. However, should adverse weather conditions continue and ice significantly accumulate on lock gates and walls, further restrictions on lockage may be necessitated.

Soccer 'founder'

Last night's super bowl provided the ultimate in football, American style. Mexican-style "football," brought home by a Granite Cityan who spent his eighth through sixteenth years in Durango, has brought sports acclaim to local teenage athletes in the form of three of this state's six high school soccer championships, 1972, 1976 and 1977.

Ruben Mendoza is known as "Mr. Soccer" in Granite City—the founding father locally of a worldwide sport that is making more and more converts in the Midwest and nation. Granite City school officials and the YMCA and Coordinated Youth Services officials also are given much of the credit.

Interest in soccer here can be traced to the early 1960s when Mendoza—his own world-famous career ended by a knee injury—began to show tots how to kick and head a soccer ball on the Coolidge Junior High School grounds.

Some have developed into potential professional caliber as well as starring at the high school and college levels.

He is shown at left with some of the many trophies that have been won by local teams of all ages.

Receiving less display but also a matter of pride to the sporting goods store owner are the many awards he attained during his own career, which included participation in three Olympics and three World Cup games.

Favoritism on deputies alleged

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Opponents of the Jan. 5 firing of Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Richard Anderson of Granite City by a merit commission appointed by Sheriff John Maeras have initiated a "public information campaign" to attempt to support a contention by Anderson's attorney that the firing was the result of Anderson's cooperation with federal authorities in investigating the sheriff department.

Among points being raised are contentions voiced by former deputy Greg Homer Thursday afternoon that numerous deputies have committed actions which brought "discredit and disgrace on the department, but only Anderson and Deputy Randall Lamb were called before merit commission hearings in recent times.

Lamb was charged with discrediting the department by not paying personal bills. His supporters allege there are at least two other deputies who have had garnishments running against their paychecks for non-payment of bills, but they were not suspended and called before a merit commission, it is contended.

The merit board found insufficient evidence to support the allegations against Lamb and ordered him reinstated with full back pay for the 30 days he had been suspended.

Homer contends charges against Lamb were dropped "as a ploy to lend credibility to the subsequent firing of Anderson."

Anderson was charged with cutting an official of the sheriff's department "a drunk" in a public tavern, and the merit board upheld the allegation—although Lamb's wife, Pat, said she made the statement during the tavern discussion and not Anderson—Homer, who attended Anderson's merit board hearing, said.

The other major count against Anderson "dismissed by the merit board.

He was alleged to have beaten a former girlfriend at her home several years ago.

Homer said testimony at the hearing showed that the sheriff's investigators had no proof, had the wrong year for the injuries, which he said occurred in 1972; and had the wrong address for the victim.

Await public sale of former fire station

Granite City officials may offer the old Nameoki Road fire station for public sale in the near future, but no definite plans to sell it to any individual or group have been made, Robert W. Stevens, city clerk, said today.

The Granite City Council has voted to sell the building, and the city attorney is now preparing the necessary resolutions to offer the building for public sale, Stevens said. When the necessary ordinances and resolutions have been prepared, the council will be asked to authorize public bidding for the building.

Public notices that the building is for sale will be published and anyone wishing

The snow continued falling vigorously during the morning. Motorists had to spend extra time digging their cars out before venturing to work.

HIGHLY-DETAILED MAPS of the Quad-Cities and surrounding area are shown being prepared by employees of the Granite City engineering department Friday morning. The maps are part of a 20-page packet of maps covering Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach, Mitchell and Arlington Heights, which will be used primarily by City Ambulance Service attendants who are experiencing problems in locating some addresses. Schools, public buildings, fire stations, block numbers, one-way streets and major thoroughfares are marked on the maps to help in quickly finding a house or street during an emergency run. Seated in the background is Mark Hatcher and in the foreground Steve Benda. The project is under the supervision of engineering technician David Nolan, standing.

An introductory course in photography will be offered at the Tri-City Area YMCA starting Friday, Jan. 20, Donald R. Raina, program director, announced today.

The course is designed for owners of snapshot cameras, and also owners of more complex cameras who do not know how to use "F" stops and varying speeds.

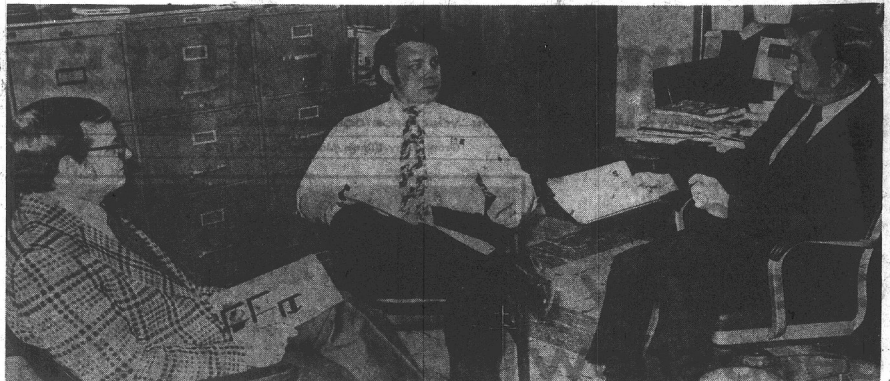

Persons interested in learning about a darkroom, either for fun or to set up their own at home or elsewhere, can learn and also improve their picture-taking technique, Raina said.

The course will provide a better knowledge of photography in general and enable better communication with commercial photo laboratories to obtain more satisfactory finished pictures.

Included in the instruction will be an introduction to camera handling and care, light sensitive materials, developing film and printing in black and white, photo composition and "story telling."

Through the course, the YMCA is planning to establish a camera club for those interested in pursuing the hobby.

Further information may be secured by contacting the "Y" at 876-7200.

TRAINING CENTER DISCUSSION. Ray Casey, right, education specialist of the adult and continuing education section of the Illinois State Board of Education, discusses plans for future growth of the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center with the VLTC director, K. Duane Rankin, center of photo. Casey usually visits the center about once a month to keep track of existing programs and to help in the planning of future programs.

At the left is Dr. Charles E. Greer, coordinator of the Region V Adult Education Service Center, located at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. Greer helps to supply local adult education facilities with the resources of the university, including personnel, teaching aides or the contacts to find other resources. The three reviewed the past year and set goals for 1978.

Buses will remain chief transit method in region

Ridership estimates for the three alternative transit systems proposed for the St. Louis metropolitan area by East-West Gateway Coordinating Council show that the light rail alternative would have the greatest number of riders. However, if it is implemented, the transit system would still be heavily reliant on buses.

Buses would serve mainly as feeders for the rail system. Sixty-three percent of all passengers boarding the rail lines would enter that system after transferring from buses, a spokesman explained Friday.

Total ridership for the $936 million rail alternative is estimated at 104 million passengers annually, an increase of 38 million riders over the 66 million passengers that Bi-State Transit System buses carried last year.

Projections of ridership for all three alternatives are based on travel patterns, population and employment projected to 1985.

The projections were approved by the Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA), which subsidizes up to 80 percent of the costs for transit system improvements.

An expanded bus alternative, which involves supplementing the bus system with new busways, more park-and-ride facilities, and more express service, particularly on Interstate highways, would increase total yearly ridership to 95 million passengers and would cost $329 million to implement, it is estimated.

The study is now being refined from a total system approach to a project-by-project level.

In terms of boarding passengers per mile, busway projects traveling along Market Street west of Forest Park and then into Clayton and along Page and Martin Luther King are the most productive routes. However, a freeway bus line traveling the U.S. Highway 40 corridor is seen as the most productive in terms of daily boarding passengers.

Of the light rail lines, the project with the highest projected volume of riders is a line running parallel to Route 725 (Inner Belt) in St. Louis County.

Four composites of the three alternatives are being developed for presentation to the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council board of directors.

The board is expected to recommend soon a preferred system for implementation, possibly at its monthly meeting in February.

Before any decision is made, the alternatives will be available for public review.

Chouteau aid offer

Chouteau Township is offering aid to the low income, elderly and handicapped using Title II revenue sharing funds.

The monies were received as a special grant from the federal government to stimulate the economy and assist people who because of low income cannot afford some of the real necessities for their health and welfare.

"Dick" Sparks, supervisor of general assistance, said that people who come within this income level would be eligible to make application for payment for eye glasses, dental work, hearing aids, braces, etc.

One in family — $6,000 income maximum per year.
 Two — $7,500.
 Three — $8,500.
 Four — $9,500.

Application forms may be obtained by contacting the Chouteau Township general assistance office or phoning 593-0686. Office hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Sparks said he urges everyone who is in need of this service and falls within the low income bracket — verification of income is necessary — to "make application because the funds are here for that purpose and we want to see the people get the benefit of them."

"Make your application immediately. They will be processed on a first-come, first-served basis, continuing as long as funds are available."

Gun-wielding man robs service station

An armed robber took an undetermined amount of cash from the Olympic Service Station, 1101 Twenty-sixth St., and a wallet containing $80 and papers from a man inside the building at 6:25 p.m. Thursday.

Louis Medley, an attendant at the station, was in the restroom and a friend, Edward Braun, was standing at the counter when a man came in holding a long-barreled weapon.

The robber put the weapon to Braun's midriff and pushed him back toward the restroom, telling Braun, "Get back in there and close the door or I'm gonna shoot."

As Braun attempted to comply, the attendant came out of the room and the robber then ordered both men to "empty your pockets and put everything on the counter and then get back in there."

Both men had returned to the room and closed the door when the robber suddenly yelled, "Hey you come here."

Medley came out and the man pointed to a cabinet under the counter where cigarettes and other items are kept.

He told Medley to unlock the padlock, but after the attendant had unlocked it and started to remove the padlock, the man said, "Don't touch nothing." He instructed Medley to get back into the restroom.

Failing to hear any noise for several moments, the two men left the room and summoned police. The entire incident took between three and five minutes, they estimated.

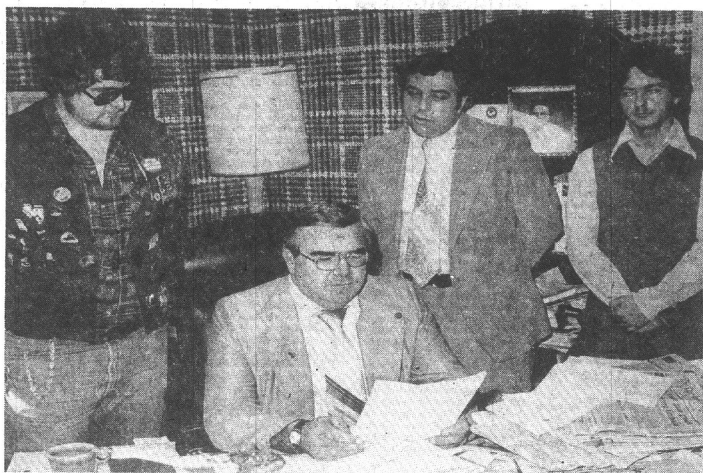

The robber stood next to the entrance door, which he left open. His weapon appeared to be a large-caliber revolver with a long blue-black barrel.

The gun was partially concealed under his coat sleeve and later was placed inside a pocket.

The bandit was described as having dark hair, about five feet, nine or five feet, 10 inches tall, and weighing 160 to 170 pounds.

He wore a full-length, Army fatigue-style green coat, with U.S. Army imprinted on one, and blue jeans.

In addition to the cash and wallet, he also took a pellet pistol from the cabinet, but left several cartons of cigarettes untouched.

JAYCEES WEEK PLANS, including an orientation dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Granite City Moose Lodge, 19th and Adams streets, are reviewed by Mayor Paul Schuler, seated, with Jaycees Bob Burgess, left, internal vice-president, and Ray Morgan and Dennis Johnson, dinner co-chairmen. Between 55 and 60 new and prospective Jaycees are expected to attend the dinner, together with regional and district officers and other guests.

Deadline March 31 to submit medical insurance application

The first three months of each year are important to those over age 65 or disabled who do not have full Medicare coverage, according to Kenna Shuster, assistant manager of the East St. Louis Social Security office.

"Most beneficiaries who are past age 65 or have received 24 disability checks are eligible for hospital insurance at no charge. The hospital insurance part of Medicare pays hospital expenses for the inpatient," she said.

"January through March is an important time to anyone who turned down the optional medical insurance portion of Medicare, which covers physician charges, outpatient hospital bills and lab test expenses."

"Medical insurance costs $7.70 per month, with the federal government contributing an equal amount. "About nine out of 10 people request both parts of Medicare when first eligible," she said. "Those who refused or terminated coverage before can apply for medical insurance until March 31. Coverage would then begin on July 1, 1978.

"Examine your Medicare card to determine if you have full Medicare coverage. If the card shows both hospital insurance and medical insurance, you have all of Medicare."

"If one or the other is missing, full coverage is now available at your Social Security office."

The East St. Louis office is located at 650 Missouri Ave. The toll-free phone number is Enterprise 1555.

NEW RECORDS CITED AT WALGREEN ANNUAL MEET

Speaking to an audience of 400 shareholders, Charles R. Walgreen III, chairman and chief executive officer of the billion-dollar firm bearing his family name, announced a "new era of expansion" at the company's annual meeting in Deerfield, Ill., last week.

He said fiscal 1977 sales and earnings set all-time records despite a loss in the Globe discount department store division, and that December sales surpassed the record levels set a year ago.

The company has opened 17 new drug stores and two new restaurants since Sept. 1, Walgreen said. President Robert L. Schmitt announced that the number of optical centers in the greater Chicago area will be increased from 10 to 25. The company also has opened a training school for opticians in order to help insure "a continuing high standard of professional service for customers," he related.

Jaycees stress membership, data helpful to the elderly

In observance of National Jaycee Week, which is being celebrated through Saturday, Granite City Jaycees will host an orientation dinner meeting Wednesday evening at the Moose Lodge hall, 19th and Adams streets.

A get-acquainted hour is planned at 6:30, with dinner being served at 7:30, according to Ray Morgan, dinner chairman.

Richard Dawdy, executive vice-president of the First Bank of Maryville, will be guest speaker and also serve as master of ceremonies. He is a past president and former historian of the Granite City Jaycees.

Between 55 and 60 prospective Jaycees are expected to attend, together with current and recently inducted members. Regional and district Jaycee officers and other guests will be present.

Special guests will be Earl Dotzauer, Al Delay and Boyd Presley, all Jaycees alumni and the only men to be accorded Jaycee Illinois senator status in the local chapter's 29-year history.

Granite City Jaycees were organized in 1947 and received a national charter in February 1948.

Special programs are being prepared for presentation this year in recognition of the chapter's 30th anniversary and the U.S. Jaycees' 50th birthday. A new project, which has received the endorsement of Illinois Governor James Thompson, is "Jaycees Love Older Americans."

A section of the overall program, to be known as VIP-2, is designated to speed assistance to senior citizens in emergency situations, plans are being completed to implement the program which, Jaycees hope, will involve the cooperation of local police and fire departments.

Three-man teams with proper credentials will visit the homes of senior residents to record medical information, the name of the nearest relative and similar details.

Plans are being completed to place in a sealed plastic bag and taped underneath the top shelf of the refrigerator, considered the most fire-resistant place in the house.

Jaycees' VIP-2 seal will be placed on the refrigerator's exterior door to denote that the information is inside.

Should ambulance personnel, police or other individuals respond to an emergency in the home, the necessary information concerning the senior resident will be readily accessible to them.

If more than one senior citizen resides in the dwelling, a snapshot is to be taken of each person to include in the emergency information kit.

Current officers of the Granite City Jaycees, include: Jerry Gann, president; Bob Burgess, internal vice-president; Danny Posten, external vice-president; Bill Hoffman, administrative vice-president.

Greg Anderson, treasurer; Richard Moslander, state director; Tom Allen, Jerry Mann, Jim Ridenour and Scott Loftis, internal directors; and Larry Byers and Tony Karpowicz, external directors.

Gann said efforts are continuing to "build up the chapter, which has about 85 members, including 12 new members enrolled in the past two months."

Aiding the young men's service club in boosting its membership recruitment program is James V. Slack, president of Granite City Steel, who has agreed the company will underwrite first-year dues for about 45 young men working at the steel plant who have indicated interest in joining the Jaycees.

Geared to community service, the Jaycees have in the past helped youths and now hope to include senior residents in the group's activities.

For many years, Granite City Jaycees have assisted children and young people, sponsoring miniature golf, kite flying and kick-pass-punt contests as well as sports lambores.

Their charitable endeavors include delivery of food baskets to needy families at Thanksgiving (16 families the past holiday), holiday shopping trips for underprivileged youngsters (32 this Christmas) and outings to Busch Stadium in summer months.

Funds for their projects have been raised through a traditional homecoming celebration each July and selling sweepstakes for league bowlers each fall.

School van, car collide

No one suffered apparent injury at 8:20 a.m. Friday when the brakes of an auto failed to stop the car and it slid down a small incline into an R. W. Harmon Co. school van.

The mishap occurred on Maryville Road at Woodlawn Avenue, Melba F. Craddock, 3100 Wayne Ave., driver of the 1977 school van, was northbound on Maryville Road with seven student passengers. None reported being hurt.

Sandra E. Fox, 2377 Lynch Ave., was operating the car, westbound on Woodlawn.

To mark the 30th anniversary of the Granite City Jaycees and National Jaycee Week, Mayor Paul Schuler has issued the following proclamation:

"Civic bodies and service organizations of our community and the departments of the local government recognize the great service rendered to this community by Granite City Jaycees."

"The United States Jaycees and its affiliated state and local organizations have set aside the week of Jan. 15-21, 1978, to observe the founding of the Jaycees 58 years ago."

"This organization of young men has contributed materially to the betterment of this community through participation and involvement in such local programs as Support Your Local Merchant and Christmas shopping tours for underprivileged children for the past 18 years."

"I proclaim the week of Jan. 15-21 as Jaycee Week and urge all citizens of our community to give full regard to the services of the Granite City Jaycees."

South dance Friday night

"White Ash" will furnish the music Friday, Jan. 20, for a dance between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. in the cafeteria at Granite City High School South. ## Man robbed, beaten

Mark Robert Murphy, 34, of Chicago, was admitted for observation at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 8:45 p.m. Thursday with injuries suffered when he was beaten and robbed after leaving the Tip Top Tavern, 1746 State St., about 40 minutes earlier.

Murphy, who was struck on the forehead and choked, was treated for abrasions to the forehead and neck before being admitted.

He told police he left the tavern to go to another bar in the company of two men and a woman he had met earlier.

After they got into a car, one of the men started choking him and demanding money.

His assailant struck him in the face with a fist several times and took about $250 from Murphy. The trio let him out of the car at West 20th Street and Illinois Avenue.

The attacker was described as being about 24 years old with long brown hair, a red Fu Manchu-style mustache; about five feet, eight inches tall and of slim build.

The woman had black hair and wore a tee shirt and jacket. The second man, who drove the car, kept telling his friend not to rob the passenger.

Murphy said. He was described as 24 years old, with long black hair and a mustache, weighed between 150 and 155 pounds and was 5'7" or 5'8" in height.

Seith will go door-to-door in all counties

Alex Seith, a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate announced Thursday a "unique personal campaign for the Senate." In press conferences in Chicago and Springfield, he pledged that "in all 102 counties I will personally campaign door-to-door."

Seith said his door-to-door contacts will begin in Lincoln, "in the heart of Illinois."

"My campaign will remind people that Sen. Charles Percy is the Rip Van Winkle of the U.S. Senate," Seith contended.

"Year after year, Percy is out of touch and out of reach. Then, in an election year, he suddenly re-appears on television."

Seith, who grew up in Aurora and now lives in Hinsdale, said he will take his campaign to "places in this state where a senator has seldom, if ever, been seen."

Weller and his brother, John, went outside to investigate, taking a .22 caliber rifle and a knife along.

A man found inside the van was ordered out and told to lie on the ground, where he was held under guard until officers arrived.

Gary Lee Overturf, 18, of 2141 Edinburg Ave., was taken into custody and charged with burglary. He was held during further investigation.

A hooked coat hanger was found on the floor of the van and two sets of keys, none belonging to the Wellers, were on the console, it was alleged.

They allegedly had been removed from the dashboard and wires were hanging underneath.

Favoritism

The alleged victim was not allowed to testify because a sheriff's department official told the merit board her psychiatrist had said she was "unstable" and unable to testify.

The chief witness to the incident was a friend of the alleged victim, but that witness is the sister of a deputy close to department officials and she is employed in another county office, Homyer asserted.

He said Attorney Jack Strellis was ready to present witnesses, including a police officer, the girl's injuries were the results of an automobile accident, but they were not allowed to testify.

Homyer contended Anderson's firing was revenge for cooperation with federal agents and for Anderson being among the leaders of the "B" team, deputies opposed to some policies of the administration.

"If Anderson was fired for bringing discredit and disgrace to the department, why was a deputy never brought before a merit board allegedly indicted by a county grand jury for arson and two felony counts of theft for allegedly having possession of television sets stolen from Bert's Audio-TV Showroom in Granite City.

Prior to that indictment, an "internal investigation" into the matter was conducted and it was concluded there was no basis for charges against the man, Homyer contended. "Why could they find nothing wrong in his investigation when the county grand jury then found enough to indict?" Homyer asked.

He alleged there have been several cases of deputies being accused but not being tried before a merit commission.

A deputy allegedly removed the battery from an auto which was towed to a county jail area at his orders, and the department called the deputy and ordered him to return the battery, Homyer said.

Another deputy, after scattering teenagers at a beer party in the woods, allegedly kept the beer tapper, which should have been turned over to the evidence officer; after minor punishment, the deputy was made an evidence officer, Homyer said.

A jailer who allegedly violated security precautions believed to have been partly responsible for an attempted jail break last summer in which deputies were held as captives for a short time; he received "a slap on the wrist, but was not brought before a merit commission," Homyer asserted.

Another deputy who wrote a letter believed partly responsible for starting the federal investigation "brought discredit and disgrace on the department," but he was not called before a merit commission," Homyer added. The deputy instead was promoted after the department got a copy of the letter, Homyer said.

The letter alleges wrongdoing by several and its allegations have been among the topics being studied by the grand jury. Dispatcher Michael Vincent, who was fired earlier this month by Maeras since Vincent is running for sheriff and wouldn't take a leave of absence, actually was fired because he testified on behalf of Anderson at Anderson's merit board hearing, "Homyer believes.

Homyer also questioned why the merit commission felt it necessary to hire an attorney to help prosecute Anderson.

"I do not remember the commission ever using an attorney and I would like to know why, and how much the taxpayers paid to have an attorney there," he remarked.

Homyer contended some in the sheriff's department have been trying to get rid of Anderson for a long time.

"When I first came into the department on the Manpower program, I was told to stay away from Rich Anderson," Homyer said.

While Manpower deputies were told they would eventually be put on as full-time deputies, Homyer said, those who continued to associate with Anderson and Lamb were kept under the Manpower program while those who did not were made deputies.

Deputies then were hired, rather than promoting Anderson's friends who were Manpower employees, he added.

Anderson also was blamed for ending the Madison County Deputy Sheriff's Association and a detective firm which shared the same building.

Anderson was elected president of that association in 1976, Homyer said, and he was asked to resign for an audit of the books. A public auditor allegedly found "irregularities" in the books, which were then turned over to the Internal Revenue Service, according to Homyer.

Anderson ordered the association's office closed and the detective agency, which was alleged to have shared a phone with Anderson, was with the association, went out of business, it was indicated.

Homyer said the department has several areas which are wasteful and dangerous.

He contends money is spent sending deputies to Alton and Granite City two or three times a week to obtain drugs for the county jail at Edwardsville. The drugs are then dispensed by deputies and jailers, and Homyer questions the practice of persons with no medical training dispensing strong prescription medications in some instances, he said.

"None of the patrol cars have cages to protect the deputy from prisoners in the back seat. They told us there was no money to purchase them, but they were turned over to the patrol cars when the cars were just purchased.

"I saw a patrol car once on an incline with its wheels turned and noticed it had white walls, but facing in. I asked why we had white walls on a patrol car, which normally cost a couple of dollars more than black walls, but I never got an answer," Homyer said. "Yet, they tell us there is no money to purchase cages for the squad cars," he

County board to act on bids

The Madison County Board will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the board room of the Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville.

Among the items to be considered are bids on six new cars for the sheriff's department and 20 new riot shields for the sheriff's deputies.

Also to be considered is a recommendation from the zoning board of appeals that a special use permit be granted to Clarence E. and Jerry T. Gibson to place a mobile home at 2883 Highway 67 (Missouri Avenue) for the sole occupancy of the Jerry Gibson family for up to five years.

A zoning request from Dr. Zaki Sheikh for a permit to use a home on Route 19 about six miles east of Route 17 in Collinsville Township for a doctor's office is being held for consideration by the zoning board.

CAUGHT IN BUILDING Madison police are questioning a 20-year-old Madison youth arrested at 1:57 a.m. today inside the Madison Auto Parts, 2020 Madison Ave. added.

Homyer contended security at the county jail is lax, saying, "I know I could sneak several items inside in one day, even with them knowing who I am. Guns have been found in the jail."

"Prisoners who are trustees walk across the courtyard to the kitchen every day to get cups of coffee which are then brought back into the jail for the prisoners. Those cups are seldom checked."

"After the escape attempt, Lamb and Anderson were transferred to the county jail to beef-up security, but the public was not told that a jailer and a dispatcher were then taken out of the jail and put on the streets. One had very little street experience, if any," Homyer said.

Maeras said Anderson and Lamb were the "most expendable" of his deputies, but Homyer believes Anderson and Lamb are the best deputies in the department.

He showed copies of commendations Anderson has received from Sheriff Maeras, including one just before his transfer.

An October 1974 commendation was for the search for, and apprehension of, suspects in a St. Louis murder attempt. Those police officers, in March 1975, he was commended for apprehension of an armed robbery suspect.

Anderson November 1975 was for aid in capturing a murder suspect near Pontoon Beach. Anderson was commended by Maeras for arresting a vehicle theft suspect in February 1976.

Also in his file are a commendation from the Illinois Bureau of Investigation dated May 31, 1977, and his commendation as a "distinguished expert" with a firearm, the equivalent of a master shooter.

Homyer said the merit commission was given copies of the commendations and the commendations.

New test expected to sharply curb prostate cancer deaths

A new test that can detect cancer of the prostate in its earliest stages is being done by urologists at Barnes and Jewish Hospitals and they are hopeful that — because of it — thousands of lives may be saved every year.

The test is an outgrowth of research sponsored by the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society at the Washington University School of Medicine's urology department.

It is another application of the radioimmunoassay technique developed by the late Dr. Solomon Herson and Dr. Rosalyn Yalow 20 years ago and for which Dr. Yalow was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1977.

At Barnes and Jewish, the test has been adapted by Dr. W.D.W. Heston and Dr. Harry Margraff of the urology research laboratories and is being done under the direction of Dr. William Fair, Barnes urologic surgeon-in-chief, and Dr. Gerald Sufrin, Jewish Hospital urologist-in-chief.

Prostate cancer is one of the greatest fears of men, especially in the high-risk group of males over age 55, according to Dr. Fair.

Many men in this age group suffer some type of prostatic disease, from benign enlargement of the gland to malignant tumors. A prominent symptom of prostatic disease is increasing difficulty in the ability to pass urine.

Cancer of the prostate is the second greatest cause of cancer deaths in American men. Like many other cancers, it is curable if treated early enough.

"Catch 22" is that until now, no test existed that could detect the disease while it was in the early, or curable stage.

Dr. Fair estimated Thursday cancer of the prostate will account for 18,000 deaths in 1978, with 56,000 new cases discovered.

Rectal examination has been the only means available up until now to detect prostate cancer, and only five to 10 percent of all cases are discovered before the cancer has spread beyond the prostate.

In almost 90 percent of patients, the disease is not diagnosed until it has spread to bones and other organs — and by this time a cure is impossible.

Dr. Fair emphasized, "There is a crying need for some method to detect prostate cancer at a time when it is still treatable. We feel this test can be one answer."

Doctors believe that if the tumors could be detected while they are still small and localized, the cure rate would be dramatically improved.

Dr. Sufrin pointed out that the cure rate would be dramatically improved.

Dr. Sufrin pointed out that the significance of the test is that until now, none of the common cancers in any area of the body could be detected by a simple blood test.

The new method for the detection of prostatic cancer requires only a very small blood sample, which is analyzed by the radioimmunoassay technique to determine the presence of abnormal amounts of an enzyme, acid phosphatase.

"Our early results in a limited double-blind study prove that the test can detect cancer in the earliest stage."

"We now need to test a large group of men at high risk — those above age 55 — to help determine whether the test should become a routine screening procedure in this age group," he said.

Dr. Heston likened the simplicity and potential of the test to the Pap smear used to detect early cervical cancer in women.

That test, which is done routinely on women over age 18, has cut the death rate from cervical cancer by half.

Dr. Heston is convinced that the radioimmunoassay test will produce at least equally dramatic results with prostate cancer.

Coal assured for schools, hospitals, churches in state

The State Board of Education was notified last week that the executive board of the United Mine Workers, District 12, which includes all of Illinois, has voted to allow coal to go to schools, hospitals, nursing homes and churches in Illinois.

CONSERVATION GRANTS

Illinois communities and recreation agencies have been awarded $8,632,919 in federal land and water conservation funds to assist with 71 projects. Gov. James R. Thompson said the federal grants will be used to purchase and develop parklands, nature trails, outdoor recreation areas, community athletic fields and swimming pools.

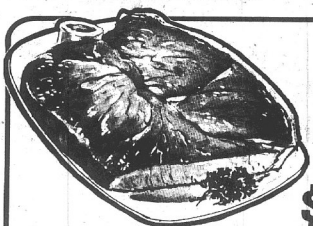

To facilitate the handling of coal deliveries, school districts were asked to provide notices of the announcement, along with a statement that the coal will be used only in school facilities. The notices are to be typed on a school district letterhead and given to any drivers of school trucks that handle coal and to the companies which supply the coal to the schools.

Madison crimes decrease in '77

A 30 percent reduction in major crimes during 1977, compared to 1976, was reported to the Madison City Council last week by Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick.

Seven major crime categories show a total of 534 major crimes in 1976 and 414 in the past year.
Auto thefts increased by one, 52 in 1977 and 51 in 1976, and there were four forcible rapes in 1977 compared to two in 1976.
Using 1976 figures first,
followed by 1977, the statistics disclose: criminal homicides, 2-0; robbery, 19-11; assault and battery, 111-92; burglary, 160-104; and thefts, 213-134.
During 1977, there were 662
arrests—271 other than traffic, 304 traffic only, and 87 juvenile detentions.

Complaints investigated numbered 7,246, with 35,158 radio, telephone and log entries for the year.

There were 349 motor vehicle accidents, nine pedestrian accidents and one traffic fatality.

Further energy cutback by Army

The Army is acting to conserve energy this winter, according to guidelines set by the President's National Energy Plan.

Many of the Army's measures, drawn up by the Natick Research and Development Command in Natick, Mass., also are being urged for adoption by the civilian community, including:

- Maintaining the speed limit on highways of 55 miles per hour
- Keeping thermostats at 68 degrees during daylight hours, and reducing them to 55 at night.
- Installing insulation, storm doors and weatherstripping materials in both residences and offices.
- Car-pooling whenever possible.
- Reducing electricity consumption.

Other measures are being taken. Army reserves are working on converting heating plants from natural gas usage to solid fuel usage. Army vehicles are being reduced in size. And pilot trainees are combining operational and administrative requirements by using flight simulators to save fuel.

The Army's goal this year is zero growth in energy consumption, designed to maintain or even improve on its overall reduction of 25 percent since 1973.

Ohio ruling shouldn't affect Illinois schools

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record
Sports Editor

The court ruling in Ohio last week that ended a ban against girls competing on boys' high school teams should have very little effect on Illinois high school sports, according to Jim Flynn, assistant executive secretary of the Illinois High School Association (IHSA).

until it comes time for the post-season playoffs.

"At this point, the Ohio ruling won't affect the IHSA," said Flynn. "All we really know about the case is what we have been reading."

"I suppose the decision will be appealed," he said. "Theoretically, the U.S. Supreme Court could hear the case."

"If Title IX (separate but equal athletic programs for males and females) is ruled to be unconstitutional, we would probably have a situation where that ruling would be in direct opposition to the basic philosophy of the IHSA.

"We could have the ultimate in equality. We might just end up with one team in each sport with every student eligible to try out regardless of sex, or any other condition."

Flynn said that the end result might be the end of girls' athletics as we know them today.

"Our (IHSA) main goal is to give as many students as possible a chance to compete in a sport," added Flynn. "I feel that we're doing that right now."

AT THE PRESENT TIME, the IHSA conducts girls' sports in volleyball, tennis, archery, bowling, swimming, basketball, badminton, softball, gymnastics, track and field, golf and field hockey.

Boys' sports are tennis, basketball, football, baseball, cross country, track and field, golf, soccer, swimming, tennis and gymnastics.

The decision by the IHSA not to allow girls to compete on boys' teams and boys not to compete on girls' teams came in 1975 when Dixon, Ill., won the girls' state bowling title with a team made up of four boys and only one girl.

THE RULING went into effect about 10 days after Dixon won the title, according to Flynn.

Flynn recalled a recent instance of a central Illinois girl trying out for the school football team.

"Shortly after she went out for football, she changed her mind and decided not to continue her pursuit of a football career," he said.

Sometimes learned judges don't have all the right answers," he added. "In Illinois, we are not concerned with this ruling. I think that our philosophy is solid and strong."

Flynn said the impact of the Ohio ruling may not be as strong as we first expected.

"We (IHSA) had a similar problem about four years ago," he said. "We had three bylaws on the books that were declared to be unconstitutional by a judge in Champaign."

ACCORDING TO FLYNN, the bylaws were: 1) only girls could compete on girls' teams and only boys could play on boys' teams; 2) only women could coach girls' teams and only men could coach boys' teams; and 3) only women could referee girls' sports and only men could referee boys' sports events.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Mon., Jan. 16, 1978 Page 8

"So by those rulings, girls can legally play on boys' teams and boys can legally play on girls' teams," said Flynn. "But I really don't think that there's much of a chance of that happening on a very large scale."

Steelers fail to Tigers . . .

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record
Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY, Jan. 14 — The Granite City North Steelers must have thought they had things pretty well in hand here Saturday night at halftime against Edwardsville.

There they were, leading by 11 (39-28) and looking like world beaters against the 1-9 Tigers. But somebody forgot to tell the Steelers that there was another half of basketball to play.

North managed only five points in a disastrous third quarter and finally lost to Edwardsville 64-59.

A somber North coach Bill Ohlendorf emerged from the North locker room afterwards and uttered only three statements: 1) "We just stopped moving the ball," 2) "We stopped putting it in the basket," and, 3) "We just stopped playing basketball."

It might have been obvious to Ohlendorf and the fans that the Steelers looked like a different team in the second half, but the reason why was a mystery.

"I DON'T KNOW. I really don't know any comment," said Ohlendorf. "It was just obvious that we stopped playing ball."

That sudden change in appearance came after the Steelers had done in the first half to make the Tigers wish they'd stayed home in Edwardsville.

Breaking away from a 10-10 tie with three minutes left in the first quarter, North built up its lead to 19-10 on baskets by Randy Vandergriff, Russ Chappell and Brad Gaun before Edwardsville got its twelfth point on a 10-footer by Joe Malench.

North kept up its dominance over the second period. Using three straight baskets by Dennis Page as a catalyst, the Steelers kept the pressure on the Tigers and caused numerous turnovers.

A 15-foot shot by Andre Bennett with five seconds remaining in the half brought the Tigers within 11 and set the stage for the third quarter heroics by Edwardsville.

A SIX-POINT SURGE by Edwardsville at the beginning of the third quarter by Dale Hartnagel managed to bring the Tigers within five points (41-36) with 4:17 showing on the clock.

NO SWEAT. Vandergriff stepped up to the free throw line at the 3:55 mark for a two-shot foul. The Steelers still had things under control.

Not quite, they didn't. Vandergriff made only one of his two attempts, Edwardsville's Bennett ripped off the rebound (one of 10 he would haul down) and the Tigers scored 10 seconds later to make the score 42-38.

Edwardsville scored seven more points in the period, including a 20-footer by Hartnagel at the buzzer which tied the score at 44-41.

IN THE FOURTH QUARTER, Edwardsville made up for its poor shooting performance in the first half. They hit almost everything they threw up at the basket while the Steelers were desperately trying to recover the magic that had been theirs in the first half.

They could manage only 15 points in the period (40 to Edwardsville's 20). Eight of those points came on free throws.

The Tigers were led in the fourth quarter by Joe Gamble who, after being mostly ineffective through the first three quarters, came alive with six points in the period . . . all six coming at critical moments.

THE STEELERS never led in the final period and came only as close as 54-52 (with 3:49 remaining.)

In fact, if not for a goallending call on Edwardsville's Bennett at the buzzer on a shot by Bob Batey, the score wouldn't have been as close as it was.

North won't have long to lick its wounds. The Steelers are entered in the Belleville East Invitational Tournament which starts Tuesday night against East.

NOT SO FAST, THERE — South's Tom Hennrich (12) doesn't have as easy a layup as he might have thought. The ball is slapped out of his hands here by McCluer North's George Haskins after Hennrich made a second quarter steal in the Warriors' loss to the Stars Friday night.

South splits two weekend games

It was the proverbial "up and down" weekend for Don Deterding's Granite City South Warriors basketball team.

The South eagles split a pair of weekend contests, losing at home Friday to McCluer North 73-54 and winning on the road at Bethalto Saturday 68-57.

Going into the locker room at halftime Friday, the Warriors thought they had things going their way. Even though they were trailing, they were doing so by only five points, 29-24 against undefeated (12-0) McCluer North. But that was where the going got tough.

The Stars from McCluer North reeled off 20 points in the third period, compared to South's 12.

The big gun for the Stars was John Missavich. The quick Missavich connected for 16 points, most of them coming in the third quarter, surging the Stars ahead to stay.

But there was another North Star who proved to be main cause in the undoing of the Warriors. Ken Sanders, a big 6-6 forward-center, pumped in a game-high 37 points for McCluer North's cause.

THAT CAUSE was to stay unscathed, which they accomplished with relative ease.

Terry Angle was double-teamed all night by the Stars' Sanders and another 6-6 player, George Haskins. Therefore, Angle found himself staring into the big men's chests most of the game instead of at the basket.

He managed to chip in 10 points, but was neutralized by the Stars' big men.

"The guy that really hurt us wasn't Sanders," said South coach Don Deterding. "It was that Missavich kid. He might just have scored 16 points, but I'll bet that most of Sanders' 37 points came directly off of assists from Missavich."

DETERRING then went on to compare McCluer North to "high school teams that he's seen and that South has scheduled."

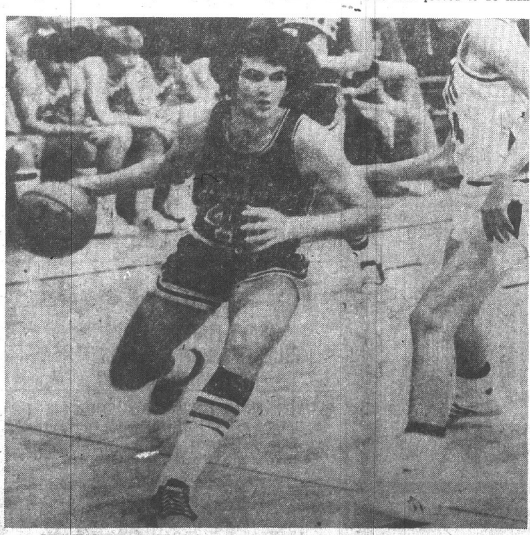

"I'd say that McCluer North is probably the third-best team we'll see this year," Deterding said. "Collinsville would have to rate as first, East St. Louis second and then McCluer North."

THINGS GOT A LITTLE BETTER for the Warriors Saturday night. They jumped out to a big lead early in the game and went on to coast to a 68-57 romp over Bethalto.

Going into the fourth quarter, the Warriors found themselves ahead by their biggest margin of the game, 55-38.

It was Angle who proved to be the catalyst. He came off Friday's poor game with a 26-point outburst that sent Bethalto reeling.

"Terry had an awful good game," said Deterding. "In fact, if he hadn't gotten in foul trouble early, we probably

DRIVING THE BASELINE for North Friday night against Belleville Althoff is Russ Chappell (40). Chappell was one of the few bright spots for the Steelers. They dropped a 66-51 decision to the Crusaders.

South wrestlers upset by West

GRANITE CITY, Jan. 13 — Granite City head wrestling coach, Bill Schmitt knew that Friday's matchup with Belleville West was going to be a tough one. But it turned out a little tougher than he would have liked.

The Warrior grapplers went down to their first dual meet defeats at the hands of the Maroons, 26-18.

Going into the final three matches of the meet, West trailed the Warriors, 18-13. That's when Schmitt knew he was in trouble. He had predicted earlier that South would have to build up a large lead going into the last three weights because of the toughness of West's wrestlers at those classes.

It turned out that Schmitt was right. At the 167-pound class, West's Bob Dunn got his squad within one point when he earned a 16-8 decision over South's Scott Polson. At 185, Rick Dunn (Bob's brother) put the Maroons ahead when he pinned Warrior Mark Kemp at 5:59.

The West victory was assured when Kent McCoy won over Don King of South 4-1. King needed a pin for the Warriors to pull it out of the fire.

At 80 pounds, David Harris of West pulled out a 12-0 decision over Warriors Greg Garland for a superior decision. After that bout, Barry Forshee of South lost to Rich Hill 6-4 in the 126-pound class. It was only the second loss for Forshee this season.

In the 132-pound class, Norman Daham of West won over South's Dean Perkins 5-0.

In the 105-pound class, Rocky Lupardoe gave South its first win with a 14-4 decision over West's Darrell Ross. At 112, Warrior Scott Clement rallied to take an 8-6 win from Don Thompson.

Wally DeShon gave South a bigger lead when he won his 119-pound bout with Glenn Hill 3-0. At 138, Sam Perkins of the Warriors and Jim Janick fought to a 6-6 draw. Darrell Hasty and Mike Forshee gave South that 18-13 lead when they both won their bouts. Hasty at 145 and Forshee at 155.

Hasty defeated Jeff Arnold 7-4 and Forshee decisioned David Sell 6-4.

The next varsity action for the Warriors will be Saturday, Jan. 21, when they travel to Hazelwood, Mo., for a quad meet with Roxana, Lindbergh and Hazelwood Central.

Steelers get rematch in first round of tourney

Coach Bill Ohlendorf's Granite City North basketball Steelers will square off against the hosts tomorrow night in the first game of the Belleville East Invitational Tournament.

The Steelers and the Lancers will be battling it out for the second time this season. East had an easy time with North 64-54 in the first game of the season for both clubs back on Nov. 25.

Game time is set for 7 p.m. for the Steelers and the Lancers.

On Wednesday, Belleville West plays Murphysboro at 7 p.m. and St. Louis-based DeMet High faces Mascoutah at 8:30 p.m., rounding out first round play in the eight-team tournament.

Thursday night, the two winning teams from Tuesday's games will play each other at 7 o'clock, and the two Tuesday losers will square off at 8:30.

The two winners from Wednesday will play at 7 o'clock Friday night and the two Wednesday losers will meet at 8:30.

Cougar grapplers' hopes are high

Three all-Americans return to the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling team for the 1977-78 campaign, and they will try to team with 10 outstanding freshmen to match or top last season's 117 dual meet record and sixth-place finish in the NCAA division two finals. Missing from this year's squad is 190-pound national champion (division two) Jerry Washington. He had one more year of eligibility remaining, but he has dropped out of school for personal reasons.

Returning for the Cougars of Coach Larry Kristoff, though, are Terry Mulrenin, Bru Meshes and Mark Hatendorf, all of whom gained last year's NCAA tournament.

Mulrenin is one of only two seniors on the squad, and he is a two-time all-American. Last season, the Oak Lawn native compiled a 28-5 overall record. He also finished sixth in the NCAA tourney. Kristoff describes his 126-pound grappler as "... slick, lean and mean."

Meshes captured fifth place in the 142-pound weight class last season. That's not a bad accomplishment, considering the junior from Deerfield has wrestled his entire career in the 150-pound class event.

Hatendorf has been plagued by injuries every year at SIUE, but each year he comes around just in time for the national tournament. Three times, he has achieved all-American status, last year placing third in the 177-pound division. "The Hatt," who hails from Elgin, is considered one of the premier wrestlers in the 177-pound class in the nation.

Heading the list of freshmen who will compete for Kristoff this year are five state tournament winners. Bill Castans is a Darien, Ill., native and a product of Hinsdale South High. He captured the state championship at 155 pounds. Kristoff says, "Bill has an untold amount of untapped talent."

Norm Mitchell of Spring Lake, Minn., is also a state champion. A product of Spring Lake Park High, he is expected to play a major role at the 167-pound weight class for the Cougars, a spot vacated by the graduation of Dave Byrne.

Tim Ervin was last year's Kentucky state champ at 126 pounds. He sported a 31-0 mark and is a hard-nosed wrestler whom Kristoff says could easily be a national champion some day.

Tom Reed hails from West Chicago and was a runnerup in the state tourney at 118 pounds. The former West Chicago High standout is tabbed as a tremendous asset for the Cougars in 77-78.

season's Minnesota state tourney, Wayne Krebs comes from Blaine, Minn. With a high school mark of 12-12, he will give the Cougars depth at the 158-pound class.

Other freshmen include Herman Jackson, a 167-pound grappler from Cahokia, and Steve Koch, a Belleville native and a product of Belleville East.

Carl Lucas, Brad Schroeder and Richard Touchette round out this year's freshman corps. Lucas is a Normandy High graduate (St. Louis), while Touchette and Schroeder are former Illinois standouts. Touchette teamed with Jackson at Cahokia High, and Schroeder is a Litchfield grad.

Kevin White and Mulrenin are the only seniors on the squad. The 118-pound White is a Northwest High product (St. Louis).

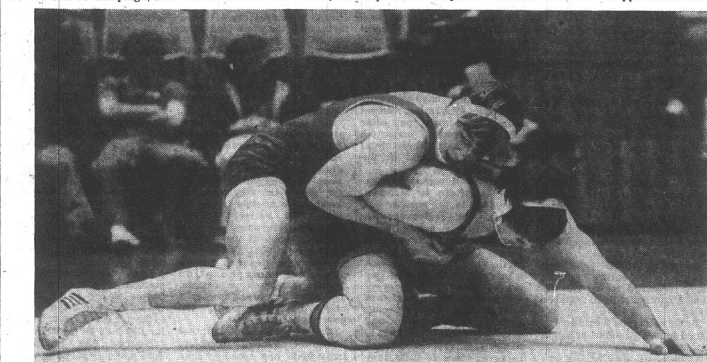

Other returning lettermen for the Cougars include sophomores Jim Hensel, a 177-pounder from West Chicago; Mel Roberson, a heavyweight from Northwest High in St. Louis; Joe Spence, a 118-pound grappler from Algonquin; and Fred Wopat, a talented 167-pound scrapper from Edwardsville.

Filling out the roster for the '77-78 campaign are a trio of juniors and a sophomore. Gary Moore of East St. Louis (160 pounds), Tim Namper of Cary Grove (150 pounds) and Charles Scott of Springfield (heavyweight) are the juniors. Scott Brenner, a sophomore from Robbinsdale, Minn., adds depth to the Cougar attack at 158 pounds.

The loss of Washington will hurt the Cougars, especially in the early part of the year.

"We have a young but fairly experienced team," said Kristoff. "As the season progresses, so will our freshmen. By the time the tournament (NCAA) rolls around, we should be in excellent shape," he predicted.

The Cougars will face stiff tests in the NCAA Division One runnerup of a year ago, Oklahoma State, in Missouri and Central Missouri State, a team that edged the Cougars last year in a dual match, 22-20. These three matches are late in the year and could tell how the SIUE squad will fare in this season's NCAA tournament prospects.

Madison takes two wins

CERRO GORDO, Jan. 14 — The Madison Trojans, behind the 20-point performance of Tim Colston, racked up their eleventh win of the season here Saturday night over Cerro Gordo 74-52 after taking a 79-72 decision Friday night in nearby Chrisman.

"Both Tim (Colston) and Clayton Harris played real well offensively, I thought," said Madison coach Larry Graham. "But our overall team work was excellent in both games."

The Trojans sped away from Cerro Gordo after leading by 10 at halftime, 38-28 in a game that was billed as the "number one game in the Decatur area" by local coaches and news media. "They really had it built up," said Graham. "They're (Cerro Gordo) a good team. They just couldn't put the ball in the hole and we had a real good night shooting."

The loss lowered Cerro Gordo's record to 10-3, with the loss being the first to a Class A (750 enrollment or less) school. THE TROJANS placed four players in double figures. In addition to Colston's 20, Lloyd Williams had 11, and Kenny Stanley scored 12 points.

Friday night, the Trojans had to hold off a pesky Chrisman squad before they finally won going away. Madison led by five at the half, 37-32, and outscored the Lions by only two in the second half to gain the win. "Our balanced scoring was what did it for us tonight," said Graham. "We had three guys with 14 points (King, Colston and Stanley). In all, our starters scored 65 of our 79 points and they all got into double figures. That definitely has to be a plus."

Clutch free throw shooting by Trojan Anthony King down the stretch helped nail down the victory. King made his last five in a row after Chrisman had crept to within one point midway through the final period. "We just played real hard," said Graham. "Our shooting was a lot better on both nights. It has been in the past few games."

Graham also credited the Trojans' defense in Friday's win. "Our press just killed them," he said. "We really didn't have to use it that much Saturday against Cerro Gordo, but Friday it sure came through for us."

Madison won't have much time to savor the two wins. They are entered in the Dupo Tournament which begins tonight. The Trojans will play Orchard Farms, Mo., at 7 o'clock.

Madison beats Prather twice

The Madison Junior High basketball team kept its eighth grade record untarnished Thursday afternoon when it walloped Prather's Chiefs 77-30. The high-point man for Madison was Darrel Baker, who pumped in 23 points. Bob Gassett scored 15 for Prather.

Madison seventh graders also won, raising their record to 6-2. They smashed Prather 46-14. John Hughes led Madison with 12 points and Eric Marcus scored nine for Prather.

Devils fall to T-town, 73-59

TEUTOPOLIS, Jan. 14 — It just seemed as if we dug ourselves in a hole in the second quarter that we couldn't climb out of," were the words of Venice coach Ken Perkins after his Red Devils saw their record dip to 1-8 by losing to third-ranked (Class A) Teutopolis, 73-59.

Teutopolis' Wooden Shoes are now 11-3.

The Devils played the Wooden Shoes tough in the opening period. The score was tied at 14-14 after the first stop.

But Teutopolis came through with some outstanding shooting by 6-1 guard Greg Smith who was hitting from everywhere.

"I WAS GOING to have the team play a zone defense until I saw Smith warming up before the game," said Perkins. "I changed my mind real quick. If he shot every time he wanted to, he'd get 50 points a night."

But the hole was taken in the second quarter. The Red Devils were outscored by Teutopolis 27-20 in that period and found themselves trailing at halftime 31-24.

The size of the Wooden Shoes soon began to tell on Venice. The Red Devils couldn't stop the ball from getting inside to Teutopolis' big (6-8, 6-6, 6-7) front line.

Teutopolis edged away from the Red Devils in the second half to eventually take the win by 15.

"They had that place pretty well packed and the crowd was real noisy," said Perkins. "That has to help any team."

Ricky Salmond who chipped in 16 points. Reggie Mathis had 11 and Ricky Jones had 10.

The next action for the Red Devils will be this Saturday night (Jan. 21) in Keil Auditorium against Livingston at 5:50 p.m.

Tickets for the game are available at the Venice High School office. Adult general admission tickets are priced at $2 and student general admission seats are $1, according to Perkins.

Whelan still undefeated . . .

North sweeps four weekend mat meets

The Granite City North Steeler wrestlers raised their record to 13-0 over the weekend when they beat Hazelwood East 48-10 Friday night in dual action and won three — from Quincy (37-15), East St. Louis (54-15) and Alton (46-4) — in a quadrangular meet held in Quincy Saturday.

North's Kris Whelan remained undefeated at the 119-pound class by winning all four bouts he was entered in.

Coach Walter Whitaker's Steelers will visit Riverview Gardens in St. Louis County for varsity, junior varsity and sophomore bouts Wednesday. North will return to Quincy Friday and Saturday to compete in a 16-team tournament.

ON FRIDAY, the Steelers routed Hazelwood East and gained their tenth win against the losses, taking a 48-10 victory.

North's defending state champion Kris Whelan, upped his record to 22-0 this season and chalked up his 59th straight win going back over the last two seasons, by taking a 16-4 decision from Jim Kattelman in the 119-pound class.

North's 105-pounder, Bob Kirgan, became 20-4 this season when he shut out Hazelwood East's Greg Johnson 15-0.

In the 98-pound class, Gerald Miller defeated Tim Colvin of Hazelwood East 9-1. North's Brett Smith pinned Mike DeClue at the 3:25 mark of their 119-pound bout.

Kevin Shemwell of North decided Ray Kattelman 1-0 in the 126-pound bout.

At 132, Allen Kirgan of North defeated Dave Hayes 6-2. Steve Haeffner of North became the second Steeler to dish out a pin when he did it to Hazelwood East's Pat Murphy in their 138-pound bout.

At 145, Steeler Ray Bryant defeated Lee Porch 13-0. Bryan Cuvar routed Hazelwood East's Joe Matteoni 16-0 for a victory in the 155-pound class.

Jerry Broadwater of North got North's third pin of the meet when he did it to Tim Kine at 4:38 of their 167-pound bout. Hazelwood East won the last two weight classes. Tim Doerr pinned North's Mike Painter at 1:13 of their 185-pound bout and Dana Morrow defeated Steeler

Tim Wyrstok 9-1 in the heavyweight matchup.

With Quincy, East St. Louis and Alton listed in that order, Saturday results were as follows: Miller lost 4-2, won by forfeit and won 6-2. Bob Kirgan won on three pins in 1:20, 1:33 and 1:56. Brett Smith won 8-7 and won on pins in 3:40 and 2:50.

Kris Whelan gained pins in 1:30, 1:19 and 4:20. Shemwell won 6-2, in 3:59 and 1:32.

Allen Kirgan lost 6-2, won in 1:41 and then won 10-4. Haeffner won 10-2, lost in 5:54 and won 22-0. Stuart won 12-0, and won on pins in 3:40 and 1:26. Cuvar won 13-5, won in 4:25 and lost 4-2.

State of state—budget balance, efficiency, highways, crime crackdown

"State of the state" message last week to the 80th General Assembly by Governor James R. Thompson:

The year 1977 brought much change for the people of our state. Nowhere was this more true than in government.

As the year began, personal tragedy had combined with electoral verdicts to yield new leadership, not only in the nation's capital and in the state capital but in our largest city as well.

In addition, the General Assembly of Illinois was faced with the task of choosing majority leadership in both houses.

What would all these new people do? Even more importantly, how would they relate to each other, in a world where levels of government become more interdependent every day?

From the start, it was a fair bet that certain policies and programs would be altered or abolished. New people would bring new ideas... and want new laws to make them reality. But there was something even more—a question that transcended the new faces and the philosophies they brought to office.

Especially in Springfield, the presence of such a different cast on both sides of the aisle was seen by many people as a great opportunity.

An opportunity to change not only the personnel and the policies of government but the very climate in which those policies were created. To improve not only the laws, but the process of lawmaking itself.

Unencumbered by past association, we were free to redraft the unwritten rules of the game.

Free to treat each other with respect and maturity and thereby increase the people's respect for government.

Free also to increase the government's respect for the people by dealing with difficult problems in an open manner, and by letting the voters have more information to use in helping us to arrive at those decisions.

Author E. B. White once said, "Democracy is a recurrent suspicion that more than half of the people are right more than half of the time." We had a unique opportunity in 1977 to show that we shared that suspicion... and if we did not seize that chance, it might not come again for a long, long time.

It is to the everlasting credit of the 80th General Assembly of Illinois that it did seize that chance. For that I want to thank every one of you... leadership and membership... young and old... Republican and Democrat.

The first and most notable change was the improved relationship between those who make the laws and those who administer them. In last year's State of the State message, I declared the war between the governor's office and the General Assembly to be over. You showed by your applause that you welcomed that peace initiative.

You showed by your actions all year long that we could keep that peace.

That did not mean that we always agreed, as the record of vetoes and veto overrides would make plain to anyone. But we did battle with respect for each other's role in the process of government. It is not too much to say that the civil tone of our discourse played a large part in our ability to come together on so many important issues.

That ability couldn't have appeared at a better time. For in truth, the state of our state at the beginning of last year was not very good.

I chose to deliver the 1977 State of the State report in conjunction with the annual budget message. The reason for that was not to condense the bad news into one bitter pill, but to underscore the financial nature of our difficulties.

I said at the time that the state of our state was in many ways the state of our checkbook. By that measure, Illinois was a very sick patient indeed.

It is customary, I suppose, for a new governor to paint a bleak picture of the conditions he inherited... particularly when the Statehouse was previously occupied by someone from the rival political party. But if a cry of alarm is not uncommon, the size of the actual threat we faced was.

Those who suggested at the time that I was overstating the case, need only to go back to that text with the advantage of 20-20 hindsight. Even a year later, its figures still stand.

The bad news was written not only in black and white, but in the red ink of record deficits... with a bottom line that threatened every good thing that state government does or hopes to do.

The facts were simple. Three years of record deficit spending had drawn our state's resources down to a few days reserve. "Fiscal gimmicks" and "creative accounting" had covered the truth from the people and penalized those who did business with the state.

Our AAA bond rating was in extreme jeopardy, with the likelihood of increased borrowing costs for construction of schools, hospitals and roads.

Illinois faced the prospect of either bankruptcy or higher taxes. Without a distinct change in our spending policies, one of the two was a point-blank certainty.

These unpleasant fiscal realities were compounded by the presence of assorted "time bombs," many of which had fiscal implications as well.

These included:

1. Unsettled contracts for state employees.

2. A court-challenged freeze on hospital reimbursements.

3. A freeze on nursing home costs.

4. An exploding state prison population.

5. A complete lack of preparation to deal with energy shortages, and the potential economic and personal disruption that they bring.

6. A whopping $750 million debt to the federal government on unemployment compensation.

7. An unmet constitutional mandate to create a new State Board of Education.

Some of these problems required executive action. Some required legislative action. A number of them required both.

But in each case the issue was faced squarely, and what had to be done was done.

1. An equitable contract was negotiated with state employees which did not wreck the budget, and yet held out the possibility of an additional raise if revenue increased sufficiently over budget estimates.

2. A settlement was negotiated with hospitals.

3. The freeze on nursing home costs was lifted.

4. Sites for two new prisons were selected, after full and open consultation with the communities involved and with cooperation of the legislature to secure immediate bonding authority.

5. A contingency plan was drafted to meet an energy emergency with a graduated and logical response.

6. Legislative action was taken to resolve the unemployment debt to the federal government.

7. In spite of the obvious partisan nature of the issue, the General Assembly and the Executive Branch agreed on State Board of Elections which was fair to both political parties.

In short, we had a lot of opportunities in 1977 to play the old politics... to point the finger to blast the opposition to duck the issue. And we didn't. I take great pride in that. And every member of the General Assembly should, too.

All of the ways we cooperated to avoid disaster, none was more fundamental and more important than the passing of a balanced budget for the fiscal year 1978.

To put it mildly, this was a challenge. What we did to meet this challenge was very simple. We began by being honest about both the scope of the problem and the measures needed to deal with it.

We put a freeze on state hiring—a freeze, which according to figures provided by the comptroller of Illinois, has reduced the state payroll under the governor by 2,500 persons. We began drafting a budget for fiscal 1978 that would put some money back into the bank.

We told the elementary and secondary education people in January that we were going to be able to give them 95 percent of full funding.

We were determined not to let school boards and administrators plan with one budget and then "cut them off at the knees" at the last minute. We said 95 percent. And we meant 95 percent.

It's not the highest percentage that was ever promised in this state, but it's the highest that was ever delivered.

These early decisions also helped bring about more stability in education and a dramatic reduction in the number of work stoppages last year in the schools.

I went before the Legislature to explain and contained the budget in detail. Many of you will remember coming to the mansion for my first budget briefing. Line by line and expenditure by expenditure.

And finally we went to the people. Twenty-one times around the state I explained the budget. With charts and graphs, I showed how much new revenue we could realistically expect and how little of that we actually had to spend as "new" money.

There were two results from that effort. One was a realistic appraisal of what fiscal 1977 would leave us. The other was a better understanding of where we had to go in fiscal 1978. We predicted a fiscal 1977 year-end surplus of $48 million. We ended up with $52 million.

If we had been off... even by a relatively small amount... it could have spelled disaster. But we weren't wrong. Fiscal year revenues were within two-tenths of one percent of our estimate.

Actual spending was within one-tenth of one percent of our estimate.

This high degree of accuracy did more than restore confidence in state government—it saved the people of Illinois money.

Illinois retained its triple-A rating with the lowest interest rate since 1969.

A chief analyst for a major bond rating service said that one more year of deficit spending and there was no way Illinois could have possibly retained its AAA rating. And yet so impressed were they after their most recent inspection that they said their next scheduled visit would be unnecessary.

In spite of pressure from many quarters to increase spending in a number of areas, a Democratic legislature passed a Republican governor's budget for 1978 virtually intact.

In doing that, I think we proved that our system—retained its AAA rating, did not have to wait until the eleventh hour to act. When men and women of good will sit down in a spirit of cooperation and concern, there is little they cannot accomplish.

A balanced budget with no tax increase—it didn't take years to achieve. It didn't take miracles or tricks. It didn't take an exploding and demoralizing crisis.

You and I and all the people of Illinois did it in 1977.

As many crises as we diffused, it would be a mistake to view 1977 only as a cooperative venture in avoiding disaster. The record of legislative cooperation for 1977 went far beyond the nuts and bolts of balancing out a balanced budget.

Legislation was passed which reformed currency exchanges, reorganized law enforcement and administrative services, and provided tax relief for agriculture land owners.

We now have tougher state laws to deal with fraudulent Medicaid providers and nursing homes. We've provided greater consumer protection in the insurance industry.

No legislative issue we faced drew more attention than criminal sentencing legislation. The public desire for tougher penalties against violent crime was overwhelming and the first steps to answer that demand were taken in 1977 with the creation of mandatory minimum sentences.

Tonight, as on most Wednesday nights, millions of Americans watch the television program "Barista." Two opens with a musical warning: "Don't do the crime, if you can't do the time... don't do it."

Thanks to the Class X package, that warning has now been codified into a bipartisan message from the government of Illinois to all who might consider acts of violence.

I will continue to work with you in 1978 to make sure that law is administered and implemented in a way that justifies our efforts and our concern.

One of the most exceptional displays of cooperation in 1977 involved not only our two branches of state government, but local and federal officials as well. After 15 years of stalemate, an agreement was reached to authorize construction of the Burnham Corridor, bringing over $1.4 billion in federal funds for a coordinated transportation program in Illinois.

As result, over the two year period of fiscal 1979 and fiscal 1980, our state will have the biggest road program of any state in the nation, bar none. That means not only thousands of jobs, but a better transportation system for every citizen of our state.

In addition to these outstanding examples of legislative action, the executive branch worked to solve critical problems with better management.

Using federal funds, the Illinois Department of Transportation took over the Paris-to-Decatur railroad line and not only saved it from abandonment, but actually ran it at a profit.

This line was recently transferred to the Wash Valley Railroad under a contract for improved service.

Other transportation initiatives focused on revitalizing Midway Airport, restructuring the East St. Louis rail terminal system, making port districts self-sufficient and improving the safety of motor vehicle travel.

Many of these programs depend almost entirely on federal dollars, and both the governor and the secretary of Transportation have gone to Washington time and again to insure that Illinois finally is getting its fair share of that federal dollar.

Other administrative measures produced impressive economies, as in the field of unemployment insurance claims.

In 1976, 13 percent of initial claims for such insurance were found to be unjustified and were denied.

In the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1977, the figure had risen to 22 percent. This increase is directly attributable to a series of training sessions for claims adjusters held throughout the state last June and last July.

In addition, the requirement that claimants report periodically to local offices for eligibility reviews has contributed to a 15 percent disqualification rate.

The message in these actions should be clear. Employable persons in Illinois now have three choices. They can be working. They can be looking for work. Or they can be looking for another state in which to collect unemployment insurance.

But as much as we want to eliminate fraud, I also believe people who deserve unemployment compensation deserve it as soon as possible.

You can't buy bread or pay a utility bill with money the government owes you.

That's why it's important that legitimate payments to jobless individuals are speedier than ever. The rate of in-state benefits paid within 14 days improved from 69.6 percent in the last quarter of 1976 to over 90 percent in the third quarter of 1977.

Where Illinois had been ranked 46th out of 50 states by the U.S. Department of Labor in 1976, it is now ranked fourth.

This combination of reducing unemployment fraud while at the same time cutting the "red tape" faced by legitimate beneficiaries is an example of the theme I stressed last year in the State of the State message.

At that time, I said that "a government which limits itself to compassion for the needy and efficiency for the taxpayer shortschanges both. In 1977, the government's job must be to provide more efficiency for the needy and more compassion for the taxpayer."

These statistics show we didn't just talk about those two goals. We acted. In less than one year, we got results.

Public aid received similar administrative scrutiny.

By removing ineligible persons and through economic growth, the aid to Dependent Children caseload in Illinois dropped for nine months in a row, beginning in April of last year and continuing right through December.

This is the biggest drop in welfare rolls in Illinois history.

The level of Medicaid expenditures also showed signs of progress.

In spite of soaring medical costs nationwide, the Illinois Medicaid budget for fiscal 1978 increased by less than 10 percent... a fraction of the nearly 30 percent increase of two years ago.

After three consecutive years of $100-million-plus deficiencies in public aid funds, we now finally have a budget for fiscal 1978 that is on target.

As a result of these efficiencies, we can... and I do... support a five percent increase in the level of public aid payments.

No one suffers from inflation like the poorest among us, and our level of assistance has been frozen since 1974. These people need and deserve more help.

We can give them that help in fiscal 1978 because we ended deficit spending in fiscal 1977. Administrative efficiency in other areas has produced smaller—but equally satisfying—results. For the first time in a number of years, the State Fair was run at a profit, eliminating the need for a subsidy from the taxpayers.

Heads-up action by our Washington office recognized and prevented a Carter Administration proposal to limit retroactive state claiming rights in federal reimbursement in the social services area—a move that would have cut Illinois up to $27 million annually.

That one victory, made possible only because we had people looking out for Illinois in the nation's capital, was enough to pay for our Washington office for the next 100 years.

Every one of these developments saved money for the taxpayers of Illinois, made it just a little bit easier to balance next year's budget, and improved the efficiency of government without increasing the cost.

Another initiative which may not actually save money, but will provide better service, is the current internal reorganization of the Department of Children and Family Services.

The history of waste and inefficient management in that agency is well-known, and we are at last making some progress in turning that record around.

Another agency which has benefited greatly from internal reorganization is the Department of Aging.

This is important because no group of citizens is more deserving and yet more vulnerable than our older citizens.

With the reorganization complete, the Department of Aging can now go on to increase the services provided by community care centers in such areas as employment, housing referrals, home services, and increased opportunities for voluntary work.

State-mandated programs have provided a source of controversy for many years. Thanks to the work of the Commission on State Mandated Programs under the able leadership of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal, we now have a better understanding of how these programs burden local government.

We also have a firm resolve to avoid any mandated programs which might increase that burden without providing appropriate financial support.

This, then, is where we are in January of 1978 — responding not only to past mistakes and present crises, but to future needs as well.

What does 1978 hold for the State of Illinois?

French Novelist Victor Hugo once said that the secret of great government was "knowing exactly how much of the future can be introduced into the present."

He might have added that it was also important to keep your eye on just how much "future" you can afford.

I am well aware that this is a budget session — limited by law to the budget and emergency measures.

Regardless of which topics ultimately receive serious attention, it is essential to remember that the fiscal crisis is still very much with us. No one should be deceived on that point.

It is true that we have given ourselves a little margin in the general funds. But it is still a small one.

Even as we meet, new fiscal realities may be chipping away at it.

Only 11 days ago, Social Security tax payments were increased. This means less take-home pay for the people of Illinois. What will that do to sales tax collections?

And how about the still-larger increases scheduled for next January — halfway through fiscal 1979? What effect will they have on the budget we will pass this spring?

The same bond rating houses that affirmed our AAA rating last year are perfectly capable of taking it away should we veer from our course.

The continuing inability of New York City to dig itself out of financial disaster should be ample warning to those who would tamper with, or undo, the fiscal progress we made in 1977.

Nor is that altered by this being an election year. Let it be said right now and as firmly as possible: no one, not me, not anyone in this chamber, is going to run for office with a campaign based on excessive public spending.

Legitimate public financing of campaigns may have to come to national politics, but we are not going to slip it in the back door of state government, by "budget busting" in 1978.

This is one year and one state where we cannot afford to have any candidate spend his way to election.

Beyond the continuing need to hold down spending, several areas deserve the immediate attention of the General Assembly.

One of the most important in my book is jobs, for jobs not only lessen the costs of government, but produce the revenue that makes everything else possible.

We have already made a good start in this regard; 1977 saw a record 3,700 new jobs and an estimated $165 million in new capital investment, attracted by the Department of Business and Economic Development from such firms as Season-all, Kal Kan and Electro Minerals.

In addition, the Crowsfoot highway agreement will contribute thousands of jobs and a tremendous ripple effect for years to come.

On an individual basis, the state's effort improved, too. The total number of persons placed by the Illinois Job Service increased in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, from 82,000 to 146,000. The number of youths and minorities placed in jobs would have doubled.

To build on this record, the legislature should consider the following measures in 1978.

1. Continue a strong capital spending program to provide even more jobs in the construction and road building industries. However, this goal must be achieved with available resources to preserve our credit rating and avoid higher interest charges.

2. Provide direct incentives for job creation, enabling us to compete with other states which already have similar incentives.

3. Reorganize state government to coordinate our efforts to support local job creation and plant siting development.

Additional organization should be done to coordinate the job training and placement functions now performed separately by a number of agencies.

I promise to continue taking personal action in securing new jobs for Illinois, action which played a role in filling the abandoned GE plant in Decatur with 1,000 new jobs with Season-all.

Beyond the budget and the job picture, there are several other areas which deserve immediate attention. One of the most urgent is the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

A guarantee of equal rights has a tremendous impact on the quality of the lives we lead.

We've debated this issue a lot, but the time for debate is over. Let's do the right thing, and pass the Equal Rights Amendment without delay.

The same types of considerations argue strongly for reform in our system for selecting judges.

Merit selection of judges would remove this critical function from the shifting winds of the political arena and serve to insure a judiciary that is sustained by political considerations.

This General Assembly should act, and act now, to put merit selection of judges before the voters in the November 1978 election.

Another area of critical concern to citizens is property tax reform. The real problem here may not only be an inequitable distribution of the burden, but is that the burden itself is too big. Local government spending is rising faster than that of any other level of government.

I will look carefully at all ideas for property tax reform.

Medical care is another area which generates a rapidly increasing burden for citizens of Illinois. As a large-scale purchaser of health care, the state has the economic clout to have a significant effect on the marketplace. Last year, we began with the creation of a Purchase of Care Review Board to equalize payments for similar services.

This year, we will institute an improved mechanism for reviewing and setting reimbursement rates paid by the state to health care providers. Details will be forthcoming when those programs are announced.

There are a number of other issues important enough to require legislative action in 1978.

We have to make our educational dollar go farther, with more money for teaching the basics and less money for administration.

We have to increase overall school aid beyond "fill funding" of the current formula, while at the same time insuring that if the formula changes, it must be equitable throughout the state and "fully funded" from the beginning.

We have to close loopholes in campaign financing and put meaningful reporting requirements on lobbying.

We have to continue reorganization of state government, expand our transportation program, improve our capacity to get jobs for people on welfare, and get more federal money for youth unemployment.

It's a sizeable agenda, I'm sure each member of the General Assembly has a sizeable agenda of his or her own.

But what is important is not to argue in advance on the topics we should consider. What is important is to agree on how we will consider them — whether we will show the same courtesy and respect and energy and practicality that we showed last year.

If we are honest about it, we know that our personal list of issues may not even be relevant. Politics has a way of turning the tables on anyone who plans too far ahead.

The most important issue of 1978 may well be one that is on no one's list right now — an issue we cannot even foresee.

But whatever the future holds

Augustine cites varied activities

With Madison County Treasurer George Musso retiring, J. H. "Jim" Augustine is seeking the Democratic nomination for that office and cites an active record of community service.

new issues or old... we can plan right now to meet them in the same spirit that we met them in 1977.

That spirit of '77 really was unique. It produced a group of men and women who acted in ways that elected officials don't often act, or at least don't act often enough.

Ways that answered serious problems and won public confidence. Ways that time and created a government that all the citizens of Illinois could be proud of.

I'm glad I could be a part of that spirit and the achievements it produced. It is a source of deep satisfaction to me, as I hope it is to you.

If I would have one parting wish for that concluded year of 1977, it is that it not remain a unique year for very long—that 1978 finds the spirit undiminished and ready to tackle a new legislative session with the same productive attitude.

If we want to build on a solid record of progress... and we can... if we want to continue choosing cooperation over conflict... and we should... if we want to once again serve the people of Illinois by meeting the challenges of another historic year.

Another governor by the name of Woodrow Wilson once said, "Government is not a warfare of interests. We shall not gain our ends by heat and bitterness, which make it impossible to think either calmly or fairly."

"Government is a matter of common counsel, and everyone must come into the consultation with the purpose to yield to the general view which seems most nearly to correspond with the common interest."

I ask you to once again come into that consultation with me so that together we can pursue that common interest.

In September 1977, he began his ninth year as social studies and driver education instructor, baseball coach and vocational coordinator at Livingston High School Consolidated District 4.

Augustine, elected and re-elected as Democratic precinct committeeman of Precinct One, Olive Township, he succeeded both his father and maternal grandfather, who were Democratic committeemen.

In 1972, he was elected as a 49th Legislative District representative committeeman.

He subscribes to "the theory that good politics is not distinguishable from good government."

He feels the strength of the Democratic party lies in unity.

To produce this unity, to meet the challenge of our times, destiny has laid upon our party the responsibility of leadership served the Quad-City area as a license investigator under Lieutenant Stanley J. Krakowicki of the Illinois secretary of state's staff.

He worked here in association with Gus Schalkham and Cassius Garrett.

His uncle, Olin Kreuter, has taught at Madison High School for over 20 years. His former coach, Earl McClanahan, also is employed in the Madison school district.

He reports having the ambition since boyhood to become a Madison County Democratic officeholder.

Augustine describes himself as "a Democrat from Democratic parents and Democratic grandparents who have been Democratic voters and workers for generations, in all its branches direct and collateral."

ADJUTANT GENERAL

Gov. Thompson has announced the appointment of Brigadier General John R. Phipps of Springfield as adjutant general of the State of Illinois. The adjutant general is chief of staff of the state's military and naval department, which includes the Illinois National Guard and Naval Militia. Phipps had been the acting adjutant general since June 16, 1977, when Major General Harold R. Patton retired from the position.

Need for visible house numbers is emphasized

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

A call comes in for an ambulance and the emergency vehicle is dispatched quickly, efficiently without a moment's delay. This is expected.

Too frequently, however, the driver is unable to find the exact address from where the call originated, because the house is not numbered. Nothing is evident to tell the ambulance driver where the sick or injured person can be located.

Police officers, likewise, too often are hampered by the same problem.

A call for assistance is received by the police department and an officer is dispatched. Many times a squad car is in the immediate neighborhood of the call, just a minute or two away.

Although the caller has given the street and house number, the specific dwelling cannot be located as no numbers are displayed on the house, or they are not visible from the street.

Valuable moments are lost while a search for the exact address is made — long enough for a heart attack victim to die, or a burglar to escape from a house.

An appeal to homeowners to display house numbers on their dwellings is being made this week by Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer.

Chief Veizer said the ambulance people, particularly, are having great difficulty finding specific addresses.

Police also are experiencing the same problem, the chief said. "It is darn near an impossibility to find a house when it isn't numbered," he stressed.

Many residents are unaware that a city ordinance sets penalties for an owner or occupant who does not display a number on a house, lot, building or structure within the city limits of Granite City, Chief Veizer said.

"Few people are aware of this fact, but we definitely have an ordinance requiring the numbering of houses," the police executive pointed out.

"Although we don't want to do it, I believe we may have to start issuing summons to get people to comply," he said.

The ordinance may be found under Article II - House Numbering.

The section pertinent to the numbering problem reads in part:

"10.301 Numbering required — All lots, buildings and structures in the city shall be numbered in accordance with the house numbering chart on file with the city clerk."

One number shall be allocated to each 20 feet of frontage in the resident district. Odd numbers shall be on the south and west sides of the streets and even numbers shall be on the north and east sides of the streets.

10.302 Charts — The city clerk shall keep a chart showing the proper street number of each lot in the city, which chart shall be open to inspection by anyone interested.

10.303 Numbers on houses — It shall be the duty of the owner or occupant of every house in the city to have placed thereon, in a place easily visible from the street, figures at least three inches high, showing the number of the houses; and any person, firm or corporation failing to so number any house owned or occupied by him or it after receiving notice to do so from the city clerk shall be fined $1 for each day on which such failure to number occurs or continues.

Granite City Postmaster Herbert Backs said today that postal regulations also require houses and business firms to be numbered for the official delivery of mail.

"Our mail carriers are pretty good guys and they know the people on their route, but official regulations do require that dwellings be visibly numbered," the postmaster said.

Mrs. Poe dies at age 89

Mrs. Triphena Poe, 89, of 2306 Bern Ave., died Thursday afternoon at Colonial Haven Nursing Home, where she had resided for 16 months.

Mrs. Poe was a member of Faith Baptist Church.

Private funeral services were held Saturday. An obituary notice is given elsewhere in this issue.

Area spelling bee set for March 4

The second annual Granite City School District spelling bee will be held on Saturday, March 4, from 9 a.m. to 12 at Granite City High School South. Each school will select one winner from each level, and these winners will then represent their schools at the district contest on March 4. The runner-up from each of the three building levels will serve as alternates.

The winner and runner-up at each level from each school will receive a ribbon. Each of the three district level winners and first runner-up will receive a trophy.

The district spelling bee committee is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Agnes Fryntko, principal of Parkview School. ## How to read your utility meters

Your meter will have four or five dials. This example shows a five-dial electric meter. Read the dials from left to right. When the arrow is between two numbers, read the lower of the two.

Your meter reading from left to right on the five dials is 63593. Make a note of the reading. When you read your meter again in, say, a month, it may read 64313, or 720 numbers more. That means you've used 720 kilowatt hours of electricity since you first read the meter.

Your gas meter reads the same but has only four dials and measures therms of gas. If your first reading is 6359 and your next reading is 6431, you've used 72 therms of gas since your first reading.

Reading your own meter from time to time enables you to check how much energy you're using and helps your family realize how wasteful habits can consume energy needlessly.

If you'd like further information about Illinois Power meters, please ask at our office.

Optical activity mini-symposium

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will host a mini-symposium on optical activity Jan. 26, according to Thomas D. Bouman, professor of chemistry.

The one-day conference will be held in the Illinois Room of the University Center from 8:15 a.m. until 5:45 p.m.

Highlighting recent advances in the theory and application of natural and magnetically induced circular dichroism (MCD) and circularly polarized luminescence (CPL), the conference has attracted experts in the field of optical activity.

The experimental techniques of optical rotary dispersion and circular dichroism have proved to be invaluable tools in the determination of structure and absolute configuration of a large number of molecules having chemical and pharmacological importance, Prof. Bouman said.

"When polarized light is allowed to shine on a molecule which is not superimposable on its mirror image, the molecule exhibits a characteristic set of responses known as 'cotton effects,'" Bouman explained.

These responses for the two mirror-image versions of the molecule have the same magnitude, but are opposite in sign.

The magnitudes in turn are sensitive to small changes in the molecular structure. These phenomena are collectively referred to as "optical activity," Bouman said.

Researchers involved in the study of optical activities at six major American universities, as well as a researcher in the field from the H. C. Orsted Institute, part of the University of Copenhagen in Denmark, will be on hand to talk about their findings.

Aage En. Hansen, from the Orsted Institute, will discuss "Molecular Structure of the Random Phase Approximation."

Carelessness causes many fires, club told

Carelessness is one of the major causes of house fires, according to Granite City Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich.

Smolich spoke to Thursday's luncheon of the Granite City Optimist Club, held in the YMCA.

"When we refer to a fire department sense as poor housekeeping is a major cause of home fires. When storage rooms are sloppy, and papers and trash are allowed to accumulate, sooner or later you have a problem," Smolich said.

"One thing that is frequently mishandled by people and can be very dangerous is an electric heater."

"A person using an electric heater should take great care in following the instructions that come with it when purchased and, again, follow good housekeeping rules."

Smolich explained the fire prevention programs of the Granite City department.

He noted that fire department representatives go to the schools and talk to children about fire safety, talk to civic clubs on request, and regularly inspect restaurants and public places where people gather.

Upon request, if a Granite

City resident would like his home inspected for possible fire hazards, the person may phone 877-6114 and set up an appointment.

Smolich said he believes the department has a good public image due to the fact that firemen are interested in the community and help with many civic projects, both as a group and as individuals.

"Image is important to all organizations and particularly fire departments."

"When we talk to children, we want to be like a knight on a white horse and then the children will listen to us about not playing with matches and about other safety rules," Smolich said.

He told the Optimists that one of the major contributing factors to Granite City having a good fire department is the relationship among the men, the chief, the union, the mayor and the City Council.

"Firemen today are really more concerned about public service. There seems to be a higher caliber of firemen generally today than 10 or 15 years ago. There is more awareness, and a really fine attitude toward doing a good job," Smolich concluded.

Pro-life trip to Congress

An estimated 100,000 Americans are expected in Washington for the event. The roses symbolize the unborn child and have been sent or delivered in person to legislators in Washington every Jan. 22 since the decision was handed down five years ago.

Over 100 persons, representing numerous area pro-life groups, have made renovations and many more have indicated their intentions to be a part of the "life caravan," which will leave the Gateway Arch at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Omni-presence reduces crime, police believe

The presence of police cars on the street—highly visible and always on the move, referred to as "omni-presence"—is one of the main reasons for a reduction in crime here, according to Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer.

Veizer spoke at last week's meeting of Explorer Post 10-4, held at the Madison Police Department.

"I think in Granite City we have an almost professional police force. Since I have seen no standards to clearly define what really is a professional police force, I use the term 'almost'."

"Our force is young and aggressive and I feel does a fine job for the citizens. Actually, the entire Quad-City area is well covered by better-than-average police departments which all do a good job," the speaker commented.

"In Granite City we have 51 commissioned officers, three civilian clerks, five dispatchers and two Manpower (federal grant) clerks."

"Our department also has 16 vehicles, nine clearly marked. I would venture to say that it is almost impossible to drive through Granite City and not see one of our cars."

"Since many of our calls, about 43 percent of them, are between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., this is the period we will have the most police on duty."

"The next heaviest time is the night shift, 9 until 3 a.m. The fewest officers are on duty from 5 a.m. until 1 p.m."

"The officers are assigned to a district within the city and they are expected to stay patrol and keep on constant patrol of that district," Veizer emphasized.

"During 1977, we handled over 1,800 calls a month and had a total of about 53,000 for the year. Our visibility and continuing movement in the police office is, I believe, the major reasons crime is down."

"The department has been responsible in 1977 for over 80 criminals being sent to the penitentiary."

"We are in a battle, and it is a rough battle—I mean the age-old battle of what is right and what is wrong," Veizer said.

"In all honesty, I must say that I do not believe enough of the criminals we arrest are sent to jail. But that, of course, is the court's decision."

"Our department is divided into three divisions: First, patrol division. These are really the workers, the men in uniform on the street."

"Then we have the investigative division. These men pick up their work generally from the patrol division, which in most cases is at a crime scene first."

"Our detectives are chosen from patrol officers. They show initiative and really can dig into something. There are six men in this division."

"Three years ago we organized the service division and I don't know really how we ever got along without them. This division takes care of the needs of our department from paper clips to ammunition."

"It also is responsible for the maintenance of all equipment, communications and records."

"A captain heads each division, and they all work as a team in protecting the public."

"My duties as chief are basically administrative. I coordinate our activities and try to keep the machinery moving properly. As I said, we have a fine group of officers and this makes for a good department."

Asked by one of the explorer members why Veizer became a policeman, he replied, "Well, I guess you could say I had wanted to be a police officer ever since I was a young boy."

"My dad was a police officer. I went into the Navy and worked as a journalist and when I got out was a baker for awhile, but I was not really happy."

"Then I applied to the Granite City police department and the Illinois state police at the same time. I was accepted by Granite City and then four days later I was notified of acceptance by the state police, so I had to live in and I the Quad-Cities in been for 24 years."

"I think I made the right choice. We have a good town to live in and I the Quad-Cities in general is a good place to work," Veizer said.

Basic honesty is the number one qualification of a good police officer, the explorers were told.

Veizer has been chief for the past 12 years and served as a detective nine years prior to that.

He also is past president of the Illinois Chiefs of Police.

Madison Police Sgt. William Papa presented members of the post with their explorer membership cards for 1978. Sgt. Papa is president of Madison Police Unit 110, sponsor of Explorer Post 10-4.

The post meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays at the Madison police station and is in its ninth year of operation.

Drug abuse prevention

Governor James R. Thompson announced Thursday the opening of a year-long campaign for drug abuse prevention in Illinois.

The governor said he has authorized Thomas B. Kirkpatrick Jr., executive director of the Illinois Dangerous Drugs Commission, to initiate an extensive statewide drug abuse prevention campaign which will parallel similar efforts by the federal government on a national level.

Thompson said: "Illinois was one of the first states in the nation to direct state resources to the drug abuse treatment problem. Since then it has become increasingly clear that drug abuse can be prevented and that prevention is the way to eliminate the necessity for treatment."

The campaign will be centered on public education for all Illinois citizens.

Over 150 statewide community-based programs will be engaged in various activities to help individuals become aware of drug abuse prevention and encourage its practice.

The governor suggested the public to contact the Dangerous Drugs Commission for the location of the community center closest to them.

In kicking off the year-long campaign, Governor Thompson also proclaimed the week of Jan. 16-22 as "Illinois Drug Abuse Prevention Week."

College cooperation grants

The Illinois Board of Higher Education has announced Feb. 13 as the deadline for receipt of proposals for programs under the Higher Education Cooperation Act (HECA).

John Rodman, director of the Office of Research and Projects at SIUE, said the purpose of the HECA is to provide financial assistance to programs of inter-institutional cooperation in order to encourage cooperation, achieve an efficient use of educational resources.

The process of selection used by the Board of Higher Education will be similar to that employed during the past several years.

Mrs. Marguerite Wertz dies

Mrs. Marguerite "Peggy" L. (Kraft) Wertz, 70, of Edwardsville, formerly of Venice, died suddenly at 5:45 p.m. Friday at the Lyman Roberts Hospital, Arkansas Pass, Tex., where she had been a patient for one hour.

Mrs. Wertz and her husband, Don Wertz, who survives, were residing at their winter home in Texas when she became ill and was taken to the hospital.

She was born in Venice and had lived in this area until moving to Edwardsville four years ago.

Mrs. Wertz retired 11 years ago as a clerk for the Illinois Terminal Railroad after 43 years of service.

Mrs. Wertz was a member of St. Mark's Catholic Church and also belonged to the Railroad Clerks organization.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Buel (Mildred) Cotter of Granite City; and a cousin who she reared from infancy, Mrs. Paul (Lola) Weber of Edwardsville.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Lift sewer restrictions

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has lifted its restrictions on new sanitary sewer tap-ons in the Nameoki area, the city was informed Thursday by Thomas G. McSwiggin, manager of the EPA's Division of Water Pollution Control.

On Aug. 21, 1975, the EPA ordered restricted status on new tap-ons due to raw sewage flowing into the Nameoki drainage ditch, the result of broken sewer lines.

In his letter Thursday, McSwiggin noted, "Since that time, Granite City has had an ongoing rehabilitation program to alleviate the problem conditions. These improvements included replacement of the 15-inch line at the Nameoki Ditch to eliminate the overflow conditions."

It also said, "Upon review of the information available, it is this agency's decision to remove the Granite City Nameoki Area sewers from restricted status."

How do you apply for pension benefits? If you leave your employer or union before you retire? If you retire while working under the plan?

Employees should be aware of exactly what their pension plans include. That way then can plan realistically for retirement years. Also, they can take steps to avoid the disappointment which could accompany a long-held false belief about retirement benefits.

Pension data for employees

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County
Extension Advisor,
Home Economics

Employees who work for organizations that offer pension plans should find out what those plans include.

If you are taking part in an employer's pension plan, ask these questions to get needed information:

—Exactly what do you get from your pension plan? What are the benefits if you work under the plan until you retire? If you quit your job today?

—Do you lose your pension rights if you change your employer? If you change your union or union local? If you are laid off for a certain period of time?

—How many years of continuous service must you have to be eligible for pension benefits? What period of time constitutes a break in service? If you are laid off, must you be available for recall to keep your eligibility.

—How are your service credits counted? Must you work a certain number of hours within a certain time period? How old must you be before you qualify for benefits?

—Is the size of your benefit a fixed amount? If not, what determines the size of it?

—Do you get credits for years you worked before the pension plan was established?

—If you become disabled before you reach retirement age, will you still get benefits? If so, what are they and what are the terms and conditions for receiving them?

—Can your survivors receive death benefits from your pension plan? If so, who qualifies? How much could they get? How long would they get it?

—Are "cost of living" increases provided for by your pension plan?

South wrestlers win sophomore tournament

GCHS South wrestlers captured the annual GCHS North eight-team mat tournament
Saturday, achieving 13 1/2 team points.
Riverview Gardens trailed with 9 1/2, Belleville East 7 1/2, Edwardsville 6 1/2, Belleville
West 6 1/2, McCluer 3 1/2, host
North 3 1/2 and Cahokia, 1 1/2.

Turnovers topple SIUE late in game

In their last three games... all defeats, incidentally... the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball players have looked great in the early going and then, when there are turnovers.
In Saturday night's 77-73 loss at the hands of a good Indiana
State University at Evansville team at the Edwardsville High gym, Coach Jim Dudley's SIUE cagers appeared in complete control in the first half, although the Screaming Eagles kept close throughout.

SIUE led 45-42 at the intermission, and it appeared that the Cougars would break the game wide open. But, in the game's final 10 minutes, turnovers proved decisive.
SIUE was charged with 22
turnovers for the game, with 14 of them in the final 10 minutes.
SIUE was still ahead, 69-67, with 4:02 to go, when visitors broke it up on a driving lay-up by senior forward, Randy Curl.

Madison game delayed until Tuesday night

Tonight's Madison High School basketball game in the Dupo invitational tournament has been postponed one night.
Instead of playing at 8 o'clock tonight, the Trojans will meet Orchard Farm at 8 p.m.
Tuesday in the eight-team Dupo tournament.
The postponement is due to the snowfall which has closed many schools in this metropolitan area.

South Boosters to meet tonight

Granite City High School
South Boosters will meet at 7:30 tonight in the school cafeteria.
Topics to be discussed include the club's lighting fund, baseball and soccer field improvements and the 1978 sports year.
The public is being invited.

would've put them away for good in the second quarter."
As it turned out, the Warriors had to wait until the fourth period before they could assure themselves of the win.

The Bethalto squad managed to pull within eight points at 1:50 mark of the fourth quarter, but it was too little too late.
South hung on and coasted to their tenth win of the season against four losses.

"We had a super first quarter and a super third quarter," said Deterding. "We played good enough in the other two periods to win."

"I'd have to say that this was our best overall team performance of the season," he added. "We looked like a ball club out there."
It seemed as if everyone knew what they were supposed to do.

DETERDING will get his next chance to see if everyone knew what he's supposed to do this Friday night against Quincy Notre Dame in a makeup of a game originally scheduled for Dec. 9 but postponed because of snow. The junior varsity will start at 6:30 with the varsity contest set for 8 o'clock.

Social promotions forcing remedial study at colleges

Social promotion in some public schools came under fire from Dr. John Roueche as he spoke to community college teachers and administrators at Belleville Area College last week.

Director of the Community College Leadership Program at the University of Texas at Austin, he is considered an expert on community colleges and problems they face in offering a comprehensive educational program. He has been a consultant with more than 300 community colleges and 70 state and national educational associations.

According to Roueche, 40 percent of all students today who graduate from the nation's high schools read below the seventh grade level. Additionally, there is a 30 percent dropout rate before students complete high school.

"What will these people do?" Roueche asked. "About their only chance is to get into some kind of vocational skills program, such as those provided by the community college."

"However, Roueche added, 'There are no vocational programs which do not require basic reading and writing skills for success.'

It is up to community colleges and universities to design remedial programs to give these basic skills, Roueche asserted.

He quoted one Ohio legislator, whom he described as "very angry," as saying, "I'm sick and tired of paying to give adults a basic education. These things are what they should have learned in the sixth grade. Why should we pay to teach them again?"

Roueche's reply was, "Sir, they didn't learn them in the sixth grade. What is your solution?"

Pointing out that those without basic skills will welfare rolls and unemployment rosters, Roueche said it is incumbent on colleges and universities to provide the remedial courses which will prepare students to do the work required in the vocational and baccalaureate programs the colleges offer.

In fact, Roueche said, the fastest growing curriculum in the nation's universities and colleges is the remedial curriculum.

"It is not only unkind, it is immoral to accept students into classes where they are assured of failure," he insisted.

"The most awarded grade in community colleges is the X or W grade given when a student drops a class."

"In an open door admissions college, many students are ill-prepared for college level work. Additionally, the average American community college student is 29 years old and must, of necessity, work to support himself and his family."

"Many of these students enroll for more courses than they can successfully complete, and end up dropping part or all of the load before the end of the semester class."

The term "two-year" should be eliminated from all references to community colleges, Roueche advocated. Community colleges have never been two-year colleges, he asserted.

Only about seven percent of those enrolled in community colleges finish their program in two years, he said, suggesting that community college programs be treated, time-wise, the same as doctoral programs.

No one considers a doctoral candidate a "slow learner Ph.D." because he takes five or six years to complete his degree," he said.

"We recognize that adults have families, jobs and other responsibilities that prohibit their giving full-time to their studies."

"We must recognize that the majority of community college students are adults. To expect them to take care of their other responsibilities and complete 32 semester hours a year is unreasonable."

Roueche shocked many of his listeners with some of the figures he cited.

About 15 percent of students in any open door college are functionally illiterate, he said. He also mentioned that some of the nation's most selective universities have hordes of students who do not possess the needed skills.

Berkeley, with 250 sections of "bonehead English," was one example given.

"You are allowing students to commit educational suicide, though, if you put them into programs where they don't have the verbal skills needed to succeed," Roueche said.

He recommends that all colleges establish developmental programs, and require them of all whose skills are assessed as lacking, to prepare them for the materials they will have in their regular courses.

Replying to a question from an instructor, he said that college's should not design materials down to the student's level, but must bring students up to the level of the material required in the course and in jobs after their education is completed.

Most students can master their reading levels in one semester of developmental study, he said. If a student is more than one reading level below the level of the material for the course, he is almost certain to fail, it was asserted.

Roueche, in his position in the education department at the University of Texas, has been involved with developmental education research with 2,000 CETA (Comprehensive Education and Training Act) community college students in Texas.

Using the methods he recommends, the colleges have helped more than 85 percent of those students to persist in their degree programs to completion.

"Not many colleges have demonstrated an ability to provide for the 'non-traditional' students who are enrolling today," Roueche contended.

"The major challenge to community colleges is to make good on their open door policy."

"No matter how much you know, it's how much you can get the students to know that makes you a great teacher."

Overflow audience at South Follies

Following the theme, "Television," the Granite City High School South early-January "Follies" again lived up to a standing-room-only crowd.

The winning class of the speech department activity was the third hour group, giving its version of "The Wrong Show."

With Greg Pare playing the master-of-ceremonies and introducing the acts.

"We again were gratified by the interest of the parents and friends of the 200 participants in the show and we deeply regret that some could not get in," Ron Pennell, head of the South speech department, said.

"The Follies are just one of numerous communications activities that provide a large number of students the opportunity to play to a large audience," Pennell said.

The acts were judged by nine members of the South Speech and Theater Club and, with last spring's winners, will be taken to see "The Wiz" musical in St. Louis.

Parodies presented included "The Wizard of South," "Don Kirchner's Cosmic Concert," "Commercial" and the "Edge of Nausea."

Parodies presented were "Caracac," "The Magnificent," "Donnie and Marie," "The Evening News," "Game Show '78," "The Carol Burnett Show" and the "The Price Is Wrong."

The South Follies are presented each semester by the oral communications classes.

Lawsuit cites fall

John Sims has filed a two-count suit seeking $250,000 in each count against the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp., Thomas Burns, Sachs Electric Co. and Wilbert Glasper.

The first count is against the steel company, Burns and Sachs Electric and alleges that on July 26, 1977, while he was employed as an ironworker by William R. Montgomery and Associates, Inc., he was placing metal sheeting on the Granite City Steel hot strip mill building. An aluminum ladder he was standing on fell, dropping him about 35 feet to the ground, it is related.

He charges the ladder was suspended on a rope from a metal hook and that an electric conduit had been placed under the hook, causing the hook to lose its "seat" and allowing the ladder to fall.

Burns, a Granite City Steel employee, was alleged to be in charge of supervising construction for the company at the time.

The suit charges an unsafe working place, unsafe scaffolding, and lack of rope safety nets and life lines.

Sims says he broke both feet and ankles and suffered numerous strains, sprains, bruises and contusions in the fall.

Count Two names the steel company, Burns and Glasper, the latter as an employee of Sachs Electric when the accident occurred. Glasper allegedly placed the conduit under the metal hook from which the ladder was suspended, according to the suit.

CONSERVE energy

IT'S OUR BEST BET

Saving energy helps us all to control rising costs — and in our case, to help hold down food prices. Energy conservation is a year-round, companywide priority at Kroger.

Among the steps Kroger has taken to save energy are recycling of heat generated by refrigeration equipment to provide heating and hot water for the store (these heat reclaim systems are now in 70% of Kroger Food Stores) . . . more energy-efficient lighting . . . elimination of unnecessary lighting . . . reduction of wasted power through better equipment maintenance and equipment modifications . . . improved building insulation . . . and more direct methods like turning out lights and turning down store thermostats.

Thanks to efforts such as these, an "energy-managed" supermarket such as Kroger uses little more energy when open than closed. For example, the largest use of energy in a supermarket is for refrigeration equipment, which must stay on 24 hours a day to protect food. Some store lights are needed for safety, security and shelf stocking. Parking lot lights and checkout equipment account for less than 1% of a store's energy requirements. Significantly, the major energy savings has been realized through the heat reclaim systems, which save approximately 500,000 kilowatt hours of electricity or two million cubic feet of gas on an annual basis in a typical superstore.

Kroger will continue to search for innovative ways to save energy while we try to serve you — our customers — efficiently and well.
